LIONS OBSERVE LADIES NIGHT

The Hondo Lions, their wives and several additional guests enjoyed a banquet in a fall harvest festival theme at the Armstrong Hotel at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening, November 5, in observance of the Club's Ladies Night. Lion Frank X. Vance was in charge of arrangements. The banquet board, laid with a white cloth, was E-shaped, each table centered with an arrangement of yellow pumpkins, apples, bananas and purple grapes as if poured from the "horn of plenty." A smaller table centered with a bowl of autumn flowers had covers laid for those on the program. A turkey supper was served.

The gathering opened with group singing of club songs, with Lion J. G. Barry leading and Mrs. C. D. Sadler, club sweetheart and official pianist, accompanying. The invocation was given by Lion Vance, followed by a welcome address by Lion President R. C. Rath, who was also master of ceremonies. The introduction of members and guests was conducted by Lion Barry.

The program consisted of two songs by a quartet composed of Ruth Rucker, Rosemarie Finger, William Horace Holloway and Henry Martin Finger, and a tap dance by Laura Ann Muennink, dressed in sailor's togs. A farewell song by the assembly closed the program.

Following the supper four games of contract bridge were played, with five tables of players. High score prizes were awarded Mrs. N. C. Johnson and Dr. W. B. Meyer.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Bob DePuy, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Garrison, Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Rath, Miss Anne Davis, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Barry, Mr. and Mrs. Ed C. IMPROVEMENTS FOR HONDO

Building construction in Hondo has received fresh impetus within the past few weeks, with several jobs being completed and new projects under way. This includes both business establishments and residences.

Finishing touches are being made on the rock work of the west wing of the county courthouse and the roof is being put on. Interior work will soon get under way. Rock is being cut in preparation for resuming work on the east wing of the building.

Other activity in the vicinity of the courthouse is the erection of a modern brick and tile building by Mr. Clarence Mummie in which he will house his hatchery business. The structure is located on the property which he recently purchased from the Haby estate, across the street northeast of the courthouse square.

The new fire station is finished and will be ready to house the Volunteer Fire Department's equipment as soon as the triple concrete driveway from the station to the street is completed. Drying racks for the hose have been built in back of the station, which is located north of the Baptist church.

A second addition to the Medina Hospital in the past several years is the east two-story wing now under construction. The first floor will be reserved for patients and the second floor for nurses' quarters.

Among the new homes is the four-room cottage of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Corder under construction in South-Starnes-Martin Addition in Southwest part of town. The new home is located south of the Dr. J. H. Meyer residence. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schlentz have torn down their farm house north of Hondo and their new rock veneer home will be completed within the next few days.

A new business enterprise for Hondo is the nursery being started by Mr. F. A. Heyen on a six-acre tract of land just south of town. A fine water well has been brought in, a greenhouse built and two acres of land are already planted to twenty-one varieties of flowers.

SPECIAL TRAIN PRACTICALLY ASSURED

Indications are that a special train, to carry the Owls, the pep squad and the football fans to Del Rio next Friday, November 14, is practically assured, according to F. H. Hollmig, chairman in charge. A. H. Hollmig, chairman in charge. A quota of 190 fares must be secured and a big percentage of this number has already signified their intention to go. Round trip tickets are $1.85. If planning to take advantage of the rate to accompany the Owls on their invasion of an old foe's territory, please notify Mr. or Mrs. Hollmig at once so final arrangements can be made with the railroad company. Official announcement as to time schedules and other arrangements will be made later.

A special train was chartered from Hondo to Del Rio in 1939 and the same quota was far over-reached. The crowd of Hondo people was swelled by fans from all over Medina County as well as from towns along the way between Hondo and Del Rio.

A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE

The screaming of the fire siren about 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning brought the fire company, and many townspeople, very promptly to the McElroy Motor Co. Garage where a fire of unknown origin in the shop had already attained considerable headway when discovered. Luckily the building has a concrete floor and the roof and walls are of heavy sheet iron. This confined the flames and heat to a great extent, but the interior, which had been jammed with cars and trucks stored for the night, was a roaring inferno and the bursting of auto gasoline tanks made it a stubborn fire to control.

The fire boys laid three hose lines, however, with remarkable facility and with an orderliness and precision that showed efficient training, and began to pour water into the scorching flames. With a good pressure and an abundance of water, their fight soon showed a telling effect and there was no spread of the flames to adjoining buildings.

We do not know Mr. Jones' loss or how much his insurance but there can be but little salvaged from the shop building, which belongs to him, or its contents. Neither do we know his plans for reconstruction.

The fire made its way between the ceiling and the roof of Mr. Rath's brick building where it was exceedingly difficult to extinguish and where considerable damage was done and where extensive repairs will have to be made to restore the building. The insurance company has appraised his damage at three thousand dollars and have settled with him on that basis.

To the efficient work of the fire boys in keeping the flames subdued, the Anvil Herald people owe the fact that they still have a shop and equipment to work with, for we are located only about thirty feet from the building in which the fire originated. The hard persistent fighting of the firemen kept the flames confined within the metal walls and controlled the flames before the roof or walls collapsed. To this we, and possibly some of our neighbors, owe our escape from the destruction that befell Messrs. Jones and Rath.

A second destructive fire this week broke out about five o'clock Thursday afternoon, November 6, at the Walker ice plant in Hondo. The blaze is alleged to have started from a grass fire on the west side of the building. The prompt arrival of the Volunteer Fire Department saved the large building from destruction. Insurance appraisers are expected today to inspect the building but it is estimated that the amount of damage runs into several thousand dollars. Mr. A. G. Walker has the ice plant leased from the San Antonio Public Service Company.

EIGHTIETH BIRTHDAY OBSERVED

Sunday, November 2, all the children, grandchildren and great grandchildren, except one, Mrs. Aaron Coon of Beaumont who was unable to come, gathered at the home of Mr. Paul Oefinger to help him celebrate his eightieth birthday anniversary, which was the day before. It also happened to be the silver wedding anniversary of his only son, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Oefinger, and the birthday anniversary of his grandson-in-law, Mr. Alfred Saathoff.

At noon delicious barbecue, prepared by Henry Schweers, was served. The birthday cake, made by Mrs. Henry Schweers, was lit and placed on the table before Mr. Oefinger. Everyone greatly enjoyed the dinner which consisted of barbecued mutton, fruit salad, potato salad, pickles, bread, and coffee. In the evening homemade ice cream and cake were served, after which everyone departed wishing Grandpa Oefinger many more such happy birthdays.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Oefinger and son, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gerdes and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schweers and daughters, Mrs. Bertha Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schulte and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Saathoff and daughters.—Contributed.

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

My blood pressure most of the time hangs around normal. But soon as I get out on the highway and the E cars commence passing me, pardner, I commence to take a purple and blue tinge. And it is not just in the day-time, you see the E cars. They seem to be even more plentiful in the cool of the evening.

But out in Washington state they got a new governor, and I guess he is allergic to E cars, too. He is starting a State Garage where all cars are pooled—and parked over-night. To get a car you gotta show where you are going. If it is just to a movie or down to the beach, you get no State car.

There is one more thing for the governor to do. He should ask his citizens to help him check-up. If a taxpayer sees a State Car he could stroll over and say, "Buddy, what you doing here this time of night, and who is the party with you, and is she working for the state, al-so?"

That boy Langlie is gonna be some governor.

Yours with the low down,

JO SERRA.

REA NEWS ITEM

The Uvalde Construction Company of Dallas, Texas, is making good progress on the construction of the REA lines to be built in Medina, Frio and LaSalle Counties.

Several hundred holes have already been dug, by using the digging machine, and the poles set. The Contractor's superintendent, Mr. Wactor, has been notified that the wire has been shipped and should reach Dilley by about the end of this week. It will be a matter of only a very short time before the conductor will be strung, transformers and service wires hung, and electricity made available to all members who are ready for service.

The J. W. Beretta Engineers, Inc., of San Antonio, who have been employed by the Medina Electric Cooperative, Inc., to do the staking of the C-2 Project lines in Uvalde County, have completed the staking of the line to the Air Port at Uvalde. They are expected to begin the staking of the remainder of the line the first part of next week, unless some unforeseen delays occur.

The right-of-way has been cleared and the contractor's crew has dug the holes and set the poles, and are ready to begin stringing the wire as soon as it arrives. They have been notified that it has been shipped and should reach them almost any day.

Last Saturday, November 1st, at 3:00 o'clock P. M., Mrs. Ted Bredthauer gave an electric cooking demonstration at the REA office in Hondo. Several ladies who live on the REA lines attended and all spent an enjoyable afternoon. The Cooperative office has planned an Electrical demonstration for every Saturday afternoon until further notice. Coffee and whatever else is cooked at these demonstrations will be served to the ladies who are in attendance.

The Cooperative office has received a letter from the REA in Washington announcing that on Sunday, November 9th, at 11:00 o'clock A. M., REA will be on the air. The Cooperative urges its members to tune in on the CBS Network at that time.

This is the last in a series of six outstanding diagram plays by leading college coaches from Grantland Rice's new Citiles Service Football Guide.

THE diagram as shown above is of a play which we have used with very good results. We have not used this play as frequently as some others and perhaps that accounts in some part for the success of it.

The ball was snapped to No. 1 back who gave it to Bob Fox, the No. 2 back, who continued to the left side as though to make an end run. Fox was a man with all around ability which was another influence that worked toward making this pass play a success.

The left halfback blocked out the defensive right end while both of our ends and the quarterback got themselves into position to receive a pass. When Fox reached the point from which he expected to throw, he usually had one of his receivers in the open. Fox was a very successful ball carrier and a great reverse runner which contributed considerably to the effectiveness of his play. The opponents were never quite sure just what was coming up.

FARMERS FROM NINE COUNTIES TO ATTEND TENANT PURCHASE MEETING CRYSTAL CITY, NOV. 10th

The United States Department of Agriculture, through the Tenant Purchase Division of Farm Security Administration, has taken an option on approximately 5500 acres of land in the vicinity of LaPryor, Zavala County, Texas.

Under the provisions of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, this acreage will be sub-divided into approximately forty family-sized farms. Tenant Purchase loans will be made to approximately forty farm families for the purchase of farms in this sub-division and for construction of new dwellings, barns, poultry houses, sheds, fences, water facilities and for other improvements.

Tenant Purchase loans are made for a period of forty years with three percent interest and annual repayments.

The farm families to receive Tenant Purchase loans will be selected from farm tenants, farm laborers, sharecroppers and other eligible persons living in Zavala, Dimmit, LaSalle, Webb, Frio, Medina, Uvalde, Kinney and Maverick Counties. Farmers who own their farms are not eligible for Tenant Purchase loans.

In order to make the Tenant Purchase program understandable to all individuals who might be eligible for and desire loans with which to purchase one of these farms, the Farm Security Administration has arranged for an all-day meeting at Crystal City, Texas, on Monday, November 10th. This meeting will be held in the Community Center (Auditorium), U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, FSA Migrant Labor Camp, located one-fourth mile north of Crystal City High School. The meeting will start at 10:00 A. M.

Several Farm Security Administration officials from Regional and State offices in Dallas, will be present at this meeting to interpret standards for eligibility and every phase of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, which gives good tenant farmers the maximum opportunity to become owners of productive family-type farms.

All persons who may be eligible and who desire a loan with which to purchase a farm in this sub-division, should file an application immediately and then arrange to attend this important meeting at Crystal

City on November 10th.

Application blanks may be obtained by contacting or communicating with any of the Farm Security Administration offices at either Crystal City, Hondo, Pearsall or Eagle Pass.

Mash Feeders and Water Fountains For Laying House

At this season of the year the pens are being mated, so additional feeders and water fountains are needed. A good mash feeder for the laying hens may be made by using old lumber. It is of the trough type, six feet long and will serve sixty or seventy hens depending on size of hens. A flock with insufficient mash feeder space is handicapped in egg production. This feeder is purposely made with short legs just high enough to prevent litter from being scratched in the feed. I find the low trough encourages greater mash consumption. The trough is made of the following materials: 1' x 12' board for the bottom with sides of 1' x 6' material. A projecting lip of 1' x 2' material is nailed on top of each side to overcome the tendency for the birds to waste the mash.

To prevent hens roosting on the sides of the trough and also to keep them out of the mash, a simple reel is provided. The height of the reel is adjustable for light and heavy breeds. New material to construct a feeder of this type will cost about $2. Twenty-seven board feet of common grade will make. The following material is needed:

1 1' x 12' Six feet long for bottom.
2 1' x 6' Seven feet long for the sides and ends.
6 1' x 2' Six feet long for reel and lips.
4 1' x 4' Eight feet long for legs and steps.
1 lb. 5 or 7 penny nails.

The trough is made as material is listed with the reel made from a three inch square block sawed from the end of the legs as they are sawed to make an acute angle; the reel is nailed to these. There is a thirty-inch strip nailed across the legs about eight inches from the floor and on these the steps are nailed. The trough sets on these, and it is best to nail the trough to the legs.

Poultrymen who have tried both find the trough type feeder encourages greater consumption than the bin or hopper type. The feed is better lighted and the more frequently filled with fresh mash perhaps explains the greater consumption obtained.

Many poultrymen say they like this V type feeder with revolving reel better than the trough type feeder as the birds have an opportunity to eat all the feed out of the trough. The following material is used for the V type trough:

2 1' x 6'—Four feet long for sides of stand.
2 1' x 4'—Five feet long for legs.
4 2' x 4'—One foot six inches for legs.
2 2' x 6'—One foot eight inches long for ends of stand.
1 1' x 5'—Five feet long for side.
2 1' x 3'—Five feet long for lip.
1 1' x 2'—Five feet long for reel.
2 1' x 10'—One foot long for ends.
1 1' x 6'—Five feet long for side.
1 lb. 6 or 7 penny nails.

A trough of this type is made by nailing the two sides together, then the ends are nailed on. The top corners of the ends should be sawed off leaving the bottom flat so the trough will set up. The lips are nailed on the side to prevent the feed being spilled out. The reel is nailed on with one nail in each end. The stand is made by nailing legs to 2 x 6 and sides are nailed on. The steps are nailed flat for birds to stand on. Cut V slots in the 2 x 6 about 3 1/2 inches for bottom of trough to rest in.

Do not forget the feeder for grit and oyster shell. These can be made by putting a divider in either above type troughs about ten inches from the end of the trough and having grit in one end and oyster shell in the other. But that requires a lot of trough space when the average grit consumed per laying hen is less than 1-2 lb. per hen. A box four inches deep and four inches wide and two feet long will hold sufficient grit for a flock of one hundred hens. These boxes should be nailed to the wall high enough to avoid litter being scratched in them, yet low enough to encourage hens to eat out of them.

Make the water handy. Why be stingy with water when it is the cheapest thing chickens need? Eggs are over two-thirds water, and hens cannot make them very fast if forced to run to the barn lot or tank every time she wants a drink—water must be convenient to the hens. If water is piped to the house then some handy fountains should be built. A water heater cut in half length ways and placed on a stand about the same height as the feeders is advisable. It is best to stretch a wire over the center of the trough to keep chickens out of the water. An automatic float instead of a faucet will help save labor with this system. It is best to arrange drainage for waste water outside of the house. Run the drainage into a hole dug three or four feet each way and filled with rocks. This lets the water soak down and does not leave wet sloppy places to start diseases. To help further, cover the hole with a screen wire.

A row of four quart crocks bowls set in rocks about the height of the feeders can be built in separate units. Each requires the following material:

4 1' x 6'—One foot ten inches long—legs.
4 1' x 2'—Twenty inches long—leg braces.
4 1' x 12'—Two foot long—top of stand.

Nail the legs to the braces about one foot from the floor, then nail two 1 x 12 on top of the 1 x 2 crosswise to the other. Cut about a thirteen inch hole in the center of the board for the bowl to set in. (These measurements are for standard four quart crock). A wire guard is made to fit over each crock. Number nine wire should be used for the loops with a lighter wire running around the top and at the bottom below top of crock to hold them in place. Usually three loops are used. These wires are 25 inches long. About eight feet of small wire is used for each unit.

Adding New Blood

The question arises in the mind of every breeder of Standard bred poultry when, how often, and where he should buy new blood if he has been breeding birds for a number of years.

Some of the breeders will tell you the purchase of hatching eggs is the best method to procure new blood when one feels improvement is needed; others will say: "Buy baby chicks as it eliminates one step," and still others will tell us that mature birds—an individual bird, male or female, a pair, a trio, or a pen—is the better method.

While each of the above methods do have advantages, right now I would like to discuss the merits of purchasing mature birds to infuse new blood into the breeder's present flock. While one can line breed for years without the addition of new blood, few breeders are sufficient masters of the art to maintain constitutional vigor, size, and ruggedness along with fine color, and outstanding fancy points.

Right now is the time to purchase new blood. The selection is large early in the season. Then, too, you can purchase a male or female that has just the qualities you need in your present flock. Maybe you need better covered tails on your males, better under color, darker more even surface color, cleaner cut head, better breast shape, etc. By purchasing a bird strong in the points you present flock is weak in, you should offset these weaknesses to a large extent.

Of late years we have sold more mated trios than ever. Many long time breeders tell us they feel the purchase of a trio of a good cockerel or cock, and two well developed pullets, or a yearling hen and a pullet, is the best investment they can make when new blood is needed. Many use this trio as mated through January and February, then in March mate the male to a small pen of pullets or hens, the best the purchaser has. Then the buyer uses his best male with the females or the "new blood" trio. Three new blood lines are procured instead of one, and yet their relationship is close enough to "nick" well for two years.

Many breeders procure new blood every other year; others oftener. Some wait five years, but only an expert can postpone the purchase of new blood so long.

Many of the old time breeders tried to have us believe that their strain never had had any new blood added. To be sure, where individual pedigree is done, with various males used with a certain female, you can start several blood lines from a single pen of choice females. But for the rank and file breeders the best, most satisfactory way to get the essential new blood is to purchase it from some reliable breeder. Tell him what your own birds are weakest in, and if he is honest he will try to help and please you.

Don't ask the breeder to send you a bird ideal in shape, with perfect head and comb, absolutely Standard color, with good wings, good tail, even barring, strong barring, etc., and say, as some do, that if you could get such a bird shipped on approval you would be willing to pay $5 for him. Fortunately, few prospective purchasers ask for this much. If an ideal, perfect bird ever was produced, we all could sell him for twenty times this amount, or more.

Right now a remarkable amount of quality can be obtained for the purchaser's dollar, and you need not wait months, as in the case of eggs and chicks, to see if it is just what you need to really improve your flock.

DRESSING DUCKS FOR MARKET

By V. M. Couch.

Ducks that are intended for market should not be given any food for twenty-four hours before killing and when ready to kill, drive about a dozen into a V shaped pen about fifteen feet deep and five feet wide at the opening. They should be handled carefully and quietly as possible. Hang them up by the legs, stun with a sharp blow on the head, then sever the main artery at the base of the brain.

The water for scalding should be at about 190 degrees F. and in scalding hold the duck by the bill and the legs and dip the breast into the water for about a minute, then turn the duck and dip the back for half a minute, then if the feathers do not rub off easily, dip again. If the ducks are killed at the right time there will be no pin feathers.

It is important that the ducks be cooled immediately after picking and this may be done by immersing a dozen or so in a large tank of cold water for half an hour. Then immerse in a second tank of ice cold water until the animal heat is entirely removed, then lay separately for a few minutes so as to drain thoroughly before packing for shipment.

Ducks may be packed in any solid container, an ordinary apple barrel will hold two dozen or more, a flour barrel thirty-five or more. In packing put in a layer of cracked ice first, then a layer of ducks, and then another layer of ice and so on until the barrel is full. After the last dozen of ducks has been put in, cover with ice then with parchment paper and fasten a clean piece of burlap over the top by nailing on a

DEATH COMES TO

H. B. WERNETTE

Henry Ben Wernette died at his home in Corpus Christi at 12:30 o'clock A. M., Friday, October 31, 1941. Funeral services were held at Corpus Christi at 3 o'clock P. M.
 Saturday under the auspices of the Corpus Christi Presbyterian church of which organization deceased was a member. The pastor, Rev. Dr.
 George West Diehl, conducted the service. Following this service, his remains were brought to the Wernette homestead near D'Hanis where a brief service was held by Pastor
 F. Davis of the Hondo Methodist church at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and burial was made in the family plot in the D'Hanis cemetery.
 The burial service was under the auspices of Hondo City Lodge No.
 756, A. F. & A. M., and was attended by a large concourse of friends of the deceased. The active pall bearers were: R. H. Balzen of San Antonio;
 A. B. Crawford of San Antonio; J.
 P. Ephraim of D'Hanis; C. W. Gip-
 son of Corpus Christi; E. G. McGon-

HENRY B. WERNETTE

agill and Dr. G. W. Labreria of Corpus Christi.

Survivors of the deceased are his bereaved widow, Mrs. Bessie Mofield Wernette, and their daughter, Miss Mary Katherine Wernette; two brothers, E. J. and R. C. Wernette, both of San Antonio; and one sister,
 Mrs. E. W. Ney of Corpus Christi.

The deceased was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Wernette, and was born in San Antonio on January 29, 1898. He had, therefore, attained the age of 43 years, 9 months and 2 days. His boyhood was mostly spent on the farm near D'Hanis. Later he lived for a while in Mexico and San Antonio, and the last eight years in Corpus Christi.

Early in life, Mr. Wernette entered the insurance business and by hard work and persistent application
 rose to prominence in insurance circles and achieved an enviable degree of financial success. He had been district manager at Corpus Christi for The National Life and Accident Insurance Company for the past eight years, and at the time of his death was President of the State Association of Life Underwriters. He was also the immediate past president of the Corpus Christi Association.

Despite a strenuous business life,
 he found time to be active in civic and fraternal organizations and enterprises. He was an active member of the Corpus Christi Presbyterian church, and of the Corpus Christi Chamber of Commerce and the Lions Club. He held life membership in the Board of Fifty Trustees of the Memorial Museum of Corpus Christi and Nueces County. Characteristic of his wide and varied interests, he was a member of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers

 Association of Texas and was keenly alive to the interests and development of this branch of animal husbandry.

His interest in fraternalism centered mostly in Masonry and he held the following memberships in different branches of that order:

San Antonio Lodge No. 1079 A.
 F. & A. M.; Burleson Chapter No. 21,
 E. A. M., San Antonio; San Antonio
 Chapter No. 14, R. & S. M.; Alzafar
 Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S. of San Antonio; San Antonio Consistory, Valley of San Antonio, Orient of Texas; and Corpus Christi Shrine
 Club, Inc., A. A. O. N. M. S. of Corpus Christi, and was an immediate past president of the latter.

It was eminently befitting, and as he would have wished it, that his last rites should be fittingly and impressively bestowed upon him by his brethren in the fraternity he loved so well.

It is peculiarly sad when one so young, so active and so full of promise of many years of usefulness is cut off in the midst of it all, and those who loved him have cause to mourn. In their fell sorrow they have the sympathy of all.

A. J. SWEARINGEN DEAD

A former land-mark and business man of Hondo passed away in the death in San Antonio on November
 3, 1941, of Andrew Jackson Swearingen. Death came to him in his home at 107 Leigh Street where he resided with his only surviving daughter.

Andrew Jackson Swearingen was born at Pine Hill, Rusk Co., Texas, on January 16, 1859. He was, therefore, 82 years, 10 months and 17 days old.

He moved to Hondo, Texas, in the early nineties; lived here a short time and moved to Devine, Texas, where he lived until about 1903. He then moved back to Hondo where he resided until 1927, when he moved to San Antonio where he remained until his passing away.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs.
 Bessie Woods, of San Antonio; one grandson, Frank Woods of Houston;
 two granddaughters, Mrs. Akin of San Antonio, and Mrs. Forsyth, of Dallas.

He was a member of the Baptist church since a young man and was a public spirited man, always interested in the affairs of his community and his country.

Deceased's remains were brought to the Harger Funeral home here,
 and at 3 o'clock P. M. Wednesday, following services conducted by Revs. R. F. Davis and Ira V. Garrison, pastors respectively of the local Methodist and Baptist churches, interment was made in the family plot
 in Oakwood cemetery, near the remains of his wife and daughter who had preceded him in death several years ago.

This paper joins in sympathy for those who mourn.

DEAD

Frank X. Bilhartz, aged 67 years, of 723 W. Russell Pl., died Tuesday, November 4, 1941, at a San Antonio
 hospital. Survivors are two sons, Elliot John and Norman Bilhartz, grandchildren Elise and Eliot John Jr., brothers, Jake and John F. Bil-hartz, and a sister, Mrs. George R.
 Wallace.

He was a member of the Anchor
 Lodge, No. 424 A. F. & A. M., Scottish Rite Bodies, Alzafar Shrine, and Anton Wenzel Lodge, Herman Sons.
 Services were held at the Riebe
 Funeral Home, Wednesday at 4 p. m.
 Rev. Everett Jones officiating. Services at the grave in the Anchor Masonic Cemetery were held by the

Anchor Lodge, No. 424, A. F. &
 A. M.
 Mr. Bilhartz was a scion of one of Castroville's earliest colonial families and, if we remember correctly,
 was himself born in Castroville.
 Though his manhood years have been spent mostly in San Antonio,
 where he reared his family, he retained an active interest in the old town and its people, and seldom missed one of that town's public gatherings. The managing editor has known him and valued his friendship since his early days in Medina County, and his will be another familiar face added to the many an old-timer misses at these recurring occasions. Peace to his ashes.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED

Halloween and a third birthday anniversary, occurring simultaneously on Friday, October 31, Master John Robert Windrow appropriately celebrated both with a party given by his mother, Mrs. Hedwig Windrow, on that day. The home was decorated with Jack-o-lanterns and the young guests were presented horns and Halloween toys to add to their gaiety.

Misses Norma Zane Kollman and Maybeth Barry assisted Mrs. Windrow in entertaining the guests with games and pinning on the donkey's tail. Flashlight pictures were also made of the party.

The birthday cake, decorated in Halloween motif and holding lighted candles, was an important part of the decorations and the refreshments. Open face jack-o-lantern sandwiches and orangeade were also served.

Those present were Gordon, Morton and Peggy Mechler, Marilyn Bendele, Parker Henry Meyer, Sandra Meyer, Beverly Schweers, Mary Jo and Carolyn McDowell, Jackie
 Fusselman, Judy Nester, Myrna Britsch, Dorothy and Rex Rucker, Dorothy Leinweber, and John Robert Windrow.

There died at Weslaco, Texas, at 11:22 P. M., August 2, 1941, one of the best friends this editor ever had. T. S. Minter, a lover of flowers and developer and producer of a new strain of Gladioli, was known to few of Farming's readers, as he contributed but few articles to its pages, but indirectly he is largely responsible for its existence. Both of us were employed in the Farmer's Institute Division of the State Department of Agriculture, and when in the spring of 1919 Commissioner Fred W. Davis appointed him to the head of the Market Division, unsolicited and unknown to us, he asked for and secured our promotion to the position of his office Assistant. Here we were privileged under his direction to establish and edit the Department's Market Journal. Its success and popularity was so phenomenal that it was soon combined with the Department's older publication, the News Bulletin, and the latter doubled in size. As market editor of that publication we were privileged to work with and under the tutelage of the late R. R. Claridge until he retired in January 1921, when the new Commissioner, Geo. B. Terrell, promoted us to succeed him as Statistician for the Department. When we resigned from that position in October 1921, it was mainly to give our attention to the establishment of this paper. Mr. Minter, a teacher all his life, was what the true teacher always is—a builder of opportunities for men and women to serve in proportion to their ability. As such it is an encomium to say of him—He builded for better and much more than he knew. And the world is richer for his having been this way.

Our great danger, says Philip F. LaFollette, is entry into war by the interventionist route without authority from Congress. If the United States is to be protected from this awful adventure, we must rely on our Senators and Representatives—not just to vote—but to fight to preserve the most vital provision in the American Constitution. * * * Patriotic Senators and Representatives must be prepared to take the lead in frustrating any dictatorial attempt at war without authorization of Congress. IF ANY SUCH ATTEMPT IS MADE, CONGRESS SHOULD SPEEDILY USE ITS IMPEACHING POWER WITHOUT HESITATION AGAINST ANY OFFICER OF GOVERNMENT, HIGH OR LOW, WHO SEEKS TO USURP UNTO HIMSELF SUCH A TYRANNICAL, UNCONSTITUTIONAL POWER.

As it looks to a long-distance observer, the English are still waiting for the Yankees to come and take the lead in an invasion of the continent. Meanwhile, it looks as if the last organized opposition to Hitler on the continent, Russia, is about finished. That accomplished, and the whole resources—what's left of them—of continental Europe, including those sent by us to Russia, will be turned upon England. Then watch her leave Uncle Sam out on a limb by concluding a "trade" with Hitler!

There is no such thing as an independent press—unless an independent people support it in its independence against becoming dependent. Are you watching your renewal date for FARMING?

CAN'T THE AMERICAN PEOPLE STAND THE TRUTH?

Can't the American people stand to be told the truth?

As Americans, we owe it to ourselves, individually and collectively, to lay that question earnestly to our souls.

In its answer lies the crucial test of our Americanism; in its broader aspects rests the destiny of this republic—whether it will long endure as a nation of free men or "become one with Nineveh and Tyre."

In any great crisis there are many contributing causes; like the tiny snowball that starts at a puff of wind on the mountain crest to become a devastating avalanche before it spends its force on the valley below, every great crisis has gathered in its sweep many contributing elements to complicate the cause and enlarge its magnitude.

In contemplating its extent, all these contributing factors must be taken into account and each one separately evaluated as to the extent it contributes to the whole.

Basically, the present world disturbance is rooted in man's lack of faith in his God—loss of belief that "beyond man's wisdom and strength" for good or ill there rules an Eternal Purpose that will eventually reward both the good and evil according to their just deserts.

In a time of such mental and spiritual darkness—when man thinks only in terms of time and material things, and has abandoned all hope of spiritual rewards or fear of punishment—then, indeed, have the Devils of Human Selfishness and Avarice "been loosed for a little season".

In such an incubator as a world thus gone mad, what a brood of evils are hatched staggers the imagination and sickens the soul!

Such is the chaos as rules man's thinking and acting today.

It makes enemies today of life-long friends of yesterday and causes conflicting ideas to make common cause in an effort of each to achieve its own peculiar purpose.

For illustration:

Look at the effort to ostracize the once popular world idol, Charles A. Lindbergh while pouring the resources of our "arsenal of democracy" into the lap of Communist Russia with the abandon of a drunken sailor playing the slot machines—and with about as little chance for profiting!

Every dictate of common sense and reason and discretion prompts America to remain aloof from any participation in this recrudescence of Europe's ages-old recurring quarrels.

Every dictate of prudence warns us to conserve our resources of men, materials and credit for our own security instead of pouring them into the sink-hole of Europe's destructive war.

And we thought America had learned her lesson in the other "war to end all wars".

Some of us did!

And now, when we see our country being propagandized into what threatens to be a far-more destructive catastrophe than the other war to "make the world safe for democracy", we mustn't name the propagandists!

Alas, how little of "safety" that war won; how many evils it spawned!

For instance, we have it on the authority of a most intelligent and trustworthy gentleman of our acquaintance, a native Austrian but an American by education and his own choice, who traveled extensively in Europe and studied impartially conditions as he found them there, that taking advantage of the desperate plight of the masses of the German people during and immediately following the other war, by controlling the credit and money resources of the country, the Jew financiers had practically made vassals and slaves of the people.

Any one with any conception of how the international banking system operates and how the Jews as a race work together in matters of finance can readily conceive of such a condition.

It was upon Hitler's efforts to cut the financial shackles from the German people that he rose to power over the Germans and incurred the eternal enmity of the Jews.

In cutting shackles he often cut off heads and the Jews' hatred for him and all his works is not an unnatural human trait—not to mention the vindictiveness that is their racial instinct.

Naturally the international bankers, who lost their gold-mine in the sweat and toil of their German vassals; and now see, so far as it appears on the surface, the man who beat them about to acquire control of the continent of Europe under a financial system entirely beyond their control, are seriously alarmed for the safety of their world control of credits and finance.

Weren't there suggestion even but recently of organizing a Jewish legion to fight in the war?

Yet with all these reasons—reasons that rule the mind and heart of the Jew so strongly—for wishing the United States to make common cause with imperial England and Communist Russia in the war for democracy—and incidentally revenge

their enemy and make the world safer for international financial exploitation. — WHEN LINDBERGH LINKS THE JEWS WITH THE BRITISH AND OUR OWN WAR-MONGERS AS THE PROPAGANDISTS SEEKING TO PUSH THIS COUNTRY INTO A WAR OF AGGRESSION—at the expense of our adequate preparedness for our own defense—HE IS ALL BUT SILENCED BY PROTESTS, protests, not only from the warmongers whose sophistries his arguments demolish and whose duplicity his facts put to shame, BUT BY MEN WHO HAVE STOOD WITH HIM SHOULDERS TO SHOULDERS FOR AMERICA FIRST—AND ALL THAT IT CONNOTATES.

And there is Hearst!

Hearst, who has been feeling the financial pinch since his late Arthur Brisbane had the temerity to advocate in his column the adoption of a national credit money system in America, and he himself inadvertently paid his uncomplimentary respects to the international bankers' control of finances in France, found it an opportune time to part company with his erstwhile co-defender of America for Americans.

WHEN INTERNATIONAL BANKERS, in a crisis such as now confronts the American people, jeopardizing as it does the lives of millions of her sons and untold billions of her wealth, to say nothing of the heritage of freedom and self-determination bequeathed us by the founding fathers of our nation, by passing the word down the line through its branch banks, to the commercial banks, to the manufacturers and jobbers, to the retail merchants whose advertisements of big department stores control the voice and destiny of big daily newspapers, THUS CONTROL THE VOICE OF THE PRESS AND STIFLE THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE WHEN THE TRUTH IS SPOKEN, then is the time for us to look well to the safety of our democracy.

Shall we acquiesce in the suppression of free speech and free press because the truth is unpalatable to certain groups?

If we have reached such a state of decay in moral fiber then are we fit only to be the financial vassals of our money-masters.

If it is not already too late let us search our souls for the right answer—an answer that calls loudly and calls now and can come only from hearts and minds of noble mold—

Can't the American people stand the truth?

—oO—

If all the money so far appropriated for defense—to say nothing of additional appropriations that will probably be made—is spent on schedule, the deficit for the calendar year of 1942 alone will be $30,000,000,000, which must be placed on top of our already staggering debt. It is estimated that by September, 1942, spending for defense purposes only will total $3,500,000,000 monthly. The proposed new taxes are the highest in our history, yet they will cover but a small fraction of the cost of defense. Thus does a financial writer sum up the fiscal status of this the richest nation in the world in natural resources—the poorest in sense enough to attend to our own business.

LIVIN'

There's a mighty lot in livin',
When the autumn flame has spread,
And the sky is amber color
And the hills are gold and red.
Seems I hear a fluid singin'
Floatin' out upon the breeze,
When the golden leaves are driftin',
Into mounds beneath the trees.

There's a mighty lot in livin',
When the spring has kissed the loam,
And the happy birds are singin',
As they build a summer home.
And when magic tills of evenin'
Floods the earth with cosmic wine,
There's a mighty lot in livin',
When the silver's on the vine.

There's a mighty lot in livin',
When the sleet beats on the pane,
Like a thousand silver hammers,
Sayin', "winter's here again",
When the jeweled trees are flamin',
Gleamin' sapphires in the sun,
And the icy fingers playin',
Tinklin' tunes for every one.

There's a mighty lot in livin',
Though life has its shadows gray,
For we also have the sunshine
That will drive the clouds away.
And I cannot tire of livin',
Life for me can bring no scars,
When the days are full of sunlight,
And the night is cleft with stars.
—EUNICE CLEMENT HYATT.

SUMMER FIELDS

The corn stands glistening in the field
And, no longer anxious of the yield,
The farmer turns to other tasks
While tasseled corn in maturity basks.

The alfalfa pastures wear purple robes
And melon vines with serrated lobes
Shelter the fruits which ripen fast
Where searing winds of summer blast.

The bearded grain in tawny cloak
The peace of summer's calm invoke
And fields stand full of goodly yields Awaiting the scythe which autumn wields.
—LELA M. WILLHITE.

Blue are the flowers
That the tame honey-bee spies.

Blue are the billows that Lie on the ocean's breast.

Blue are the herons that fly
Over the wind-swept crest.

Blue are the portals of Eternal Paradise.

But blue as emotion
Changes quickly the rhyme.

I'm blue as the bluest
When your eyes fail to shine.

—JESSICA MOREHEAD YOUNG.

LIFE AT THE FULLEST

O, give me a life that is free from care,
A life that is void of pain—

Give me pleasures and treasures rare,
No loss—just a life of gain.
This is a plea too many are prone
To offer nor seem to know

A plant needs rain with the sunlight
For its fullest light to show.

—ELEANOR A. TOTMAN.

FAMINE

The rabbits hide in tangled grass
As fox and coyote slinking pass
Night draws the curtains of the sky
The whippoorwills, lamenting, cry
As to deserted nests they fly.

The winter winds wail and shriek
While frozen branches snap and creak.
Snow on the prairies drifts around,
With frosty grip wild creatures bound
Crouch closer to the icy ground.

Afar the lone wolf's hunger-cry
A coyote's haunting, sad reply;
The wild things cower, keep from sight
Under the snowdrifts hard and white
But gives the wolf no pause in flight.

Thrill on the Northern wind is borne
The mate-call trembling and forlorn
Again a fearsome answering cry
As through the darkness swift and sly

The hungry pack comes panting by.
—ALICE SINCLAIR PAGE.

ECHOES

(To My Daughter-in-law)

Like a flower-girl you came one day
Spreading love-blossoms along the way.

When the twilight brought its purple still
Your returning home gave us heart-thrill,
Crowning the day with petals of cheer.

That was yesterday—now you're not here.

How strangely still the house—time is long,

Yet, twilight brings the echo of your song.

—MARY GOSSETT SMITH.

YESTERDAY—ONCE BORN

Time, you old Alchemist,
Can take Tomorrow in your hold
And with a twist Make
It today And cast
It into yesterday.

—EDITH ANISFIELD WOLF.

RAIN AT EL CAMPO

Beginning with widely spaced, ice-cold drops;
Almost as large as ping-pong balls:
With a pitter, patter, and a splatter;
Sounding heavily, as it falls.

It rains, it pours, for sure—a water-spout;
Swishing, and swirling all around:
Roaring torrents, flooding rivers and creeks;
Washing our topsoil from the ground.

Then, ceasing gradually to mere mist;
With clearing skies, and bright sunshine:
Then, beautiful rainbow, token of peace;
Giving courage and hope sublime.

—R. O. BOMAR.

VERMONT MEMORIES

Nothing can ever take away
What you have meant to me;
Something special and apart
Potent, thrilling, fanciful—free.

The rushing foamy mill-stream
Made music for our ears—
There, pensive, let us dream,
Smiles, perhaps, hiding tears.

Towering green hills—snow-capt
View with renewed surprise
Over heads, again,—mist-wrapt
See a glorious sun rise.

Before we stand in the afterglow,
From out the Past may we borrow
Time to wander thru the Long Ago,
Down the Sunset Trail of Tomorrow.

—MONTA WEST
KIRKCONNELL.

LACQUERED BEAUTY

My heart yields so to color's rain-
bowed rich domain,
I try to keep from losing it in vain.
Its joy so over-flows with giving thanks Where the spear-grass arms the shore-lines flowery flanks
That after each refreshing shower of rain,
The poignant beauty stabs my heart again.

—PAUL JANS.

TAKE HOPE

Peace tarried in the valley.
It was a glorious Spring;
Contentment shone on faces,
Farming was in full swing.
When a devil in man's clothing
Gazed out upon the world
With avaricious craving, Hate's banner he unfurled.
"All men shall feel my power,
My myrmidons," he cried,
"Shall make this mine, what care I
If my claims be denied?
With Satan as my henchman
We'll conquer every foe
Until the whole earth cowers
In misery and woe."
So he ordered up Hell's legions,
His mandates were obeyed,
With devilish inventions
Raid followed after raid.
They over-ran the valleys
With modern Juggernauts,
Contented faces vanished
In murderous onslaughts.

But, TAKE HOPE, from desolation
Truth will again arise,
Across her breast Faith's baldrick,
Love shining in her eyes,
'Freedom for all' her symbol
On flags of every hue,
And guardian-like above them,
Our own Red, White and Blue.
—ELLIE WILCOX BURT.

ROSE ON A WINDOW SILL

The room is cold and bleak and bare,
And the little old lady is weak and ill;
But she smiles at the rose on her window sill.

She does not see the graying walls
For golden hours her rose recalls,

Pity, roses going to waste
Spending their beauty in some lonely place,
Many a heart, with gladness they would fill
Placed by kind hands on a window sill.

—ANNIE L. TOWLER.

VIRGIN PANORAMA

The loom of Winter weaves a spread
Of white for Mother Earth,
To beautify her somber bed
With hue of cosmic birth.

Then mystic silver of a star
And moon transform the night,
And bathe Earth's regions near and far
With splendor of their light.

The Earth is now a gleaming plain
Of beauty that prevails;
Serenity and silence reign
Upon the hills and trails.

—MARIE L. BLANCHE.

OPTIMIST

He was just a ragged youngster,
But held an uppish chin
And merry, twinkling eyes of blue
And such a winning grin.

"You got anything new?" he asked.
"No," I said, feeling sad;
Thinking of a hard-luck story
From this undernourished lad.

"Oh, gee, I have. Look here!"
And he made the swiftest paces
In half-covered worn old shoes,
"See? My dandy new shoe laces!"

—GENEVA PEARL DRISKILL.

GARDEN TALKS

"From the Crow's Nest", a 70-page collection of poems by John Harsen Rhoades, 27 West 44th Street, New York, N. Y., has been received. The poems, written in a philosophical mood and Mr. Rhoades' smooth, flowing style, affords pleasant and profitable reading.

The current issue of Candor, one of the typographically most attractive poetry journals we have ever seen, announces its suspension. We wonder why such a beautiful child must die so young? The current issue of Rayburn's Arcadian Life of Cedar Gap, Arkansas, announces its taking over of Candor's subscription list.

We are pleased to acknowledge receipt of two attractive booklets from Pegasus Studio, 1309 Payne Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio. Green Petal'd Flames is a 50-page collection of miscellaneous poems by Mrs. Flozari Rockwood, written in her usual happy strain. The other is a unique collection from various authors of verses written in the Trizad form. Both books will afford any poetry lover an enjoyable diversion.

Our contributors should be regular subscribers to the paper and you should keep files of the numbers as issued. In this way you not only keep up with the appearance in print of your compositions but preserve them for any future use to which you may wish to apply them. And again be reminded to not risk sending manuscripts to this office without keeping copies of them, and do not ask us to write letters.

Washington Snapshots by JAMES PRESTON

Within the next fortnight, you'll be reading statements and reports of speeches about the new defense plans now being hatched. The watchword at Capitol Hill is "anything could happen," and the White House
now talks of a defense program
triple—not double—present estimates.

The plans afoot call for 100 billion dollars to be spent by the end of 1943 or early 1944. More battleships, tens of thousands of tanks,
and more than 100,000 airplanes,
including about 30,000 long-range bombers; and defense to consume 50 per cent of industrial capacity, as against 18 per cent at present—
that's the new goal.

It was only a year ago that Washington was assuring industry and labor that defense would be superimposed on the regular business of the country. "Guns and butter" was the slogan. And no one in Washington had the courage to talk of sacrifices to come. Instead, with each month, came stories of the need to raise defense sights. And the funds authorized for defense grew, though there was no over-all blueprint for the spending apparent.

The budget for 1942, announced in January of this year, called for $10,800,000,000 for defense. By March the seven billions of the original Lease-Lend Bill had been added.
By August, the defense program was visualized as a 50-billion effort.

The 100-billion program now talked of would mean man-hours of work enough to employ every single man and woman in the country's whole labor force for one year. Or, looked at another way, it would mean putting all present employees in manufacturing to work on a 40-hour week schedule for six whole years.

—WSS—
Washington behind-the-scenes talk
these days is of the "stiffening"
White House attitude on strikes that are hamstringing defense work. The fact is that even the pro-labor men around the President are beginning to talk of being "fed up."

Congressional leaders are now drafting legislation with sufficient teeth, they think, to eliminate jurisdictional labor disputes which have been paralyzing business and industrial activity in some entire communities. The new bill would combine the best features of five measures now pending before the House Judiciary Committee: the Walter and Monroney bills which would permit prosecution of labor unions by the anti-trust division for certain types of offenses in restraint of trade; the Boren and Disney bills which would deny the benefits of the National Labor Relations Act to unions whose officers do not meet certain qualifications; and the Bennett bill to compel labor organizations to file periodic financial reports.

Some observers believe the President may try to head off legislation

by some Proclamation or stern statement against defense strikes. So far the President has already announced that the OPM would take action to reduce or eliminate jurisdictional disputes. Symptomatic also was the President's message to the AFL convention urging a moratorium on strikes.

What's behind this startling change of sentiment? A number of things. The Bureau of Labor Statistics, for one, showed that strikes
during the first seven months of 1941 cost 15,750,000 man days. 500 per cent more than in the corresponding period of last year.

The steady spread of jurisdictional strikes throughout the country has given the administration a lot of worry. And even within the aggressive pro-labor circles of the Administration there's a growing belief that the unions are pushing the closed shop maintenance issue too far and the defense program is suffering as a result.

Then, too, the nationwide attention attracted by the Currier case has contributed to the "souring."
The Government rejected the Currier bid on a Michigan housing project because of AFL protests despite the fact that it was an extremely low bid.

—WSS—
Further evidence of changed attitude was shown in the sharp letter written by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Board to the Metal Trades Department of the A. F. of L. The letter, criticizing the number of strikes, said: "If Navy men . . . are not ready to back up what they say with action, they have learned to keep their mouths shut until that time arrives."

Secretary of Labor Perkins got on the bandwagon, too. At the AFL convention she said trade-unionism
"is no longer in swaddling clothes . . .
its affairs are therefore public property and it must expect to be judged
as other institutions are judged."
The public, she said, asks that the practices of closed membership and high dues, combined with closed shop, be "re-studied with a view to the public welfare and to the rights and liberties of all the citizens of the United States."

A number of Congressmen are saying they never expect to see the New Dealers go sour on the closed shop. Even more surprising is the increasing comment by officials in the defense agencies and friends of the Administration that a definite labor policy to replace the present confusion and bewilderment is number one prerequisite to victory in the battle to defend democracy.

INFORMATION FOR SELECTEES

Selective Service registrants enroute to Army induction centers
should "travel light," taking nothing
but essentials so as to avoid inconvenience to themselves and to the armed forces, General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director
cautioned today.

One small bag should be sufficient to carry the things a selectee needs until he is given his equipment by the Army, the Director said.

"If you wish, take a small bag
with a few clean clothes, a few handkerchiefs, socks, soap, towel, and other necessary toilet articles. These are not essential, for you will be issued necessary equipment by the Army, but they may come in handy should there be any delay in your induction."

"Leave jewelry, large sums of money, and other valuables at home,
for they may be easily lost. If possible, take a little spending money for such needs as you may have before your first pay-day. Take some postal cards or stationery and stamps, a fountain pen, and an inexpensive watch if you have them."

Selectees were warned by General Page to leave automobiles and motorcycles at home. Commanding officers will tell the men on their posts if they may have these vehicles and the soldiers then will have an opportunity to get them from their homes, he pointed out.

Unnecessary articles taken to induction centers must be returned to his home by the selectee at his own expense or otherwise disposed of,
General Page said.

PONTIFICAL MASS AT CASTROVILLE SUNDAY BY BISHOP LAURENCE FITZSIMON

Pontifical Mass was celebrated in St. Louis' Church, here, Sunday, Nov. 2, at 10 o'clock, by Most Rev. Laurence J. FitzSimon, who was consecrated Bishop of Amarillo on October 22.

The sermon was by Very Rev. F. J. Hullweg, provincial treasurer of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate, San Antonio.

Great interest was manifested in the celebration by the pastor, Very Rev. Dean Jacob Lenzen, and by parishioners and other friends of the new Bishop, who spent several years of his childhood and youth in Castroville, where he received his early education from the Sisters of Divine Providence in St. Louis' School, and was the first priest ever ordained from the St. Louis congregation.

The new Bishop was extended many felicitations on the occasion from his friends and best wishes for success in the great work with which he has been entrusted.

LADIES AID SOCIETY MEETS

Ladies Aid Society of Martha met in the Fuos Building for its monthly meeting on October 29, 1941 at 2:00 P. M.

The meeting was opened with prayer and singing of hymns.

The minutes were read and approved. The following members were appointed to serve on the various committees: Black altar cover and Brown cloth for organ committee: Mesdames A. H. Falkenberg and Hilda Franger and Mrs. Wm. Tschirhart. Cedar Chest committee: Mesdames Clarence Bippert and Hilda Franger and Rev. Falkenberg; the cedar chest will be used for the altar covers when not in use. Christmas stamp committee: Mesdames Robert Montel and Alma Penkert. We would like to encourage everyone to help support this fine institution — The Grace Lutheran Sanatorium, by buying Christmas stamps from these ladies, so it can grow to be a larger institution of greater services for those who are stricken with such a dreadful disease as tuberculosis. One never knows when he will be next to face such a sickness. Sick Committee: Mesdames F. C. Stinson and A. C. Wurzbach. Membership Committee: Mesdames O. B. Penkert and John Heisser.

We are happy to announce that Mrs. Clark of San Antonio will meet with the ladies in their next meeting on November 26, 1941, at 2 P. M. sharp. We urge members and non-members to be with us for an interesting lecture, "The Easy Way to Do Household Cleaning", demonstrating Stanley products. Certain percentage of what is being sold will go to the Ladies' Aid treasury. Several of the Ladies' Aid members have tried these products and they praise them very highly.

These are some of the problems that the Ladies' Aid members should be thinking about: An electric stove for the parish and the 90th Anniversary of our Castroville Lutheran Church and whether you would like to celebrate this anniversary January 29, 1942.

The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. Arthur Kriewail. —Reporter.
